SPARTAN 1965
NATURAL SPARTANS

Students eagerly anticipated the construction of the new classrooms.

REFLECTIONS

Emptiness—yet when the bell rings, pandemonium.

Our own Alma Mater, Central High, did not come into existence by the mere waving of a fairy's wand, nor did the addition of our four new classrooms appear this way. Through the designs, dreams, and plans of man aided by nature's gifts, such as the clay for the bricks, came the structure we know as our school.

The traditions surrounding the original building, combined with the new classrooms, join forces to produce the CENTRAL HIGH SCHOOL IMAGE. It is the privilege of the 1965 Spartan Staff to present this image and its memories to the students, patrons, and teachers of our school. May you see your reflection in the mirror of events taking place during this school year.

... Our Excursions Into

An experiment in balancing forces is one part of the many intricate facets of knowledge and information that a student must absorb.

In addition to the nourishment of the mind, an essential part of every school day is the nourishment of the body.

"Here's our team, the best in the land!"

The Spartans journeyed to the Y. M. C. A. to meet basketball opponents, Lexington and Salisbury.

By means of the classroom, students traveled through the world of knowledge.

Friendships

Magic moments were ours when we met in the gaily decorated gym for dances. Punch and mints often revived the dancers as they cha-chad, twisted, or jerked.

Our beauty queens, too, as part of our social section, represented the school well.

The Homecoming Dance climaxed a 34-6 victory over Denton.

Athletically Speaking . . .

"Hey! What's the idea?"

The athletic phase of our school offers a year-round panorama of sounds—the brutish thump of pads and bodies, the clamor of racing feet on the hardwood, and the crowd-pleasing crack when bat meets ball. All of these sounds are mirrored in the blurred motion of the athletes.

Determination brings success.

Al Farabee drives toward the basket.

Touchdown on the way, as Hobart Leonard carries.

From the Beginning We Strove For a Goal

The first day of school presented perplexing problems to many of the freshmen as they had to become accustomed to a new schedule.

Examinations proved to be the indicators of how much a student had worked as he progressed on the road toward graduation.

Success—The goal for which we have striven for four years.

DEDICATION

DEDICATION

Mr. Hoover is a well-known figure on the campus, as he conducts classes and coaches athletes.

In recognition of his outstanding leadership in building minds and physically-fit bodies, we, the Senior Class of 1965, dedicate this edition of THE SPARTAN to Mr. H. Wayne Hoover.

Whether on the right-hand side of a driver's education car, drawing diagrams on the floor for his athletic teams, or teaching mathematics to his students, he has proved to be a friend.

Even while not coaching, he could be found as a spectator urging the team on.

ADMINISTRATION

ADMISSIONS

Miss Robbins talks to parents at a P.T.A. meeting.

By means of new and improved teaching methods, the administration has achieved new dimensions in classroom training. Additions to the curriculum have also opened the door to advanced learning.

Not only has this been achieved in the classroom, but in extracurricular activities as well. Many faculty members devote their limited time to sponsoring organizations.

Mrs. Yarborough appreciated new classroom facilities after teaching classes in part of the agriculture department.

Our Policy Maker, The Principal

Mr. David H. Young
A. B. Catawba College
Graduate Study: M. Ed.
University of North Carolina

Mr. Young serves as the chief organizer of our school policy. His ability to handle the problems of school life well, enables school operations to continue smoothly.

The Administration

Mr. Patrick Harrison, ASSISTANT PRINCIPAL

Meeting the challenge of increased enrollment was one of the primary achievements of our administration this past year. This growth necessitated conducting many classes in the cafeteria, auditorium, and agriculture department for the first few months of school. However, with the co-operation of all, this challenge was met, and classes continued with only an occasional interruption for the convenience of the construction workers.

Very few, if any, have not made these appeals to the staff members. Their services are invaluable to students.

Parent-teacher relationships are also indispensable to good organization. Monthly P.T.A. meetings give parents and teachers the opportunity to discuss ways of helping students.

The English Language Mirrors Our Ideas

Double negatives and dangling participles are indeed staunch enemies of English students, and perhaps the teachers as well. Recently, great emphasis has been put on the study of vocabulary, as colleges demand that students possess a knowledge of our English language.

Each student is required to report each month on at least one book that he has read. Here, one of these book reports is being shared with the class.

A Fairyland Viewed at a Distance

The truth of reality in Steinbeck's The Pearl or the mystical magic of Shangri-La in the Lost Horizon by Hilton, are the fruits of studying great literature. Through literature we can see the world, its people, and the tragic and joyful lives they lead.

Group discussions of great literature widen the horizon and knowledge of today's students. Many of these discussions take place in this Advanced Literature class.

$E=MC^2$ - Mathematics - $C^2=a^2+b^2$

The goal of the mathematics department is not only to teach students to solve equations, prove triangles similar, and obtain the tangent of a 45-degree angle. Mathematics serves to teach the principles of clear thinking and reasoning.

The Library is a Haven for Inquisitive Minds

"It is saying less than the truth to affirm that an excellent book is like a well-chosen and well-tended fruit tree. Its fruits are not of one season only. With the due and natural intervals, we may recur to it year after year, and it will supply the same nourishment and the same gratification, if only we ourselves return to it with the same healthful appetite."

The 1965

CAROLE BURKHART, Editor

Now as you hold THE 1965 SPARTAN in your hands, no one could be happier or more greatly relieved than the annual staff. This book represents for them many hours of hard work.

Your yearbook began many months ago with the soliciting of ads to provide financial backing. Your first thoughts of the annual probably occurred when deposits were taken in September. It wasn't long until there was constant primping in the halls of Central High School for individual and group pictures.

Spartan Staff

While you witnessed these events, much work by the annual staff went unseen by most students. There was planning, organization, and decisions, decisions, decisions: a theme, design and color of the cover, kind of paper. There were pictures to cut, number, identify, and arrange; copy to be written, typed and proofed; bills to be sent; artwork and snapshots to be made; and a constant watch to be kept on the money.

So very much goes into the production of a yearbook. There is an immense number of tasks that are little but essential.

Now the little and the big tasks are done, and you hold in your hands the finished product. We hope it meets with your approval.

Central Outstandingly Defends Conference Title

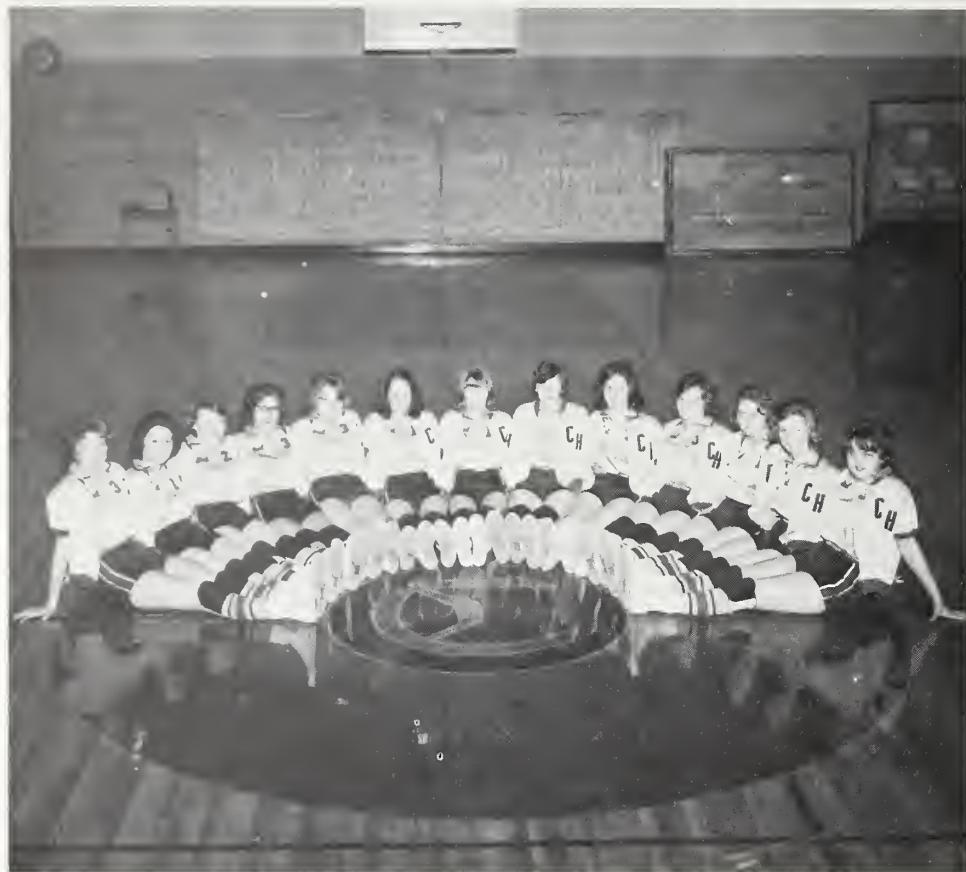

Basketball still reigned as one of the most popular, if not THE most popular, sport during the school year.

The girls played under the direction of their new coach, Mrs. Roverda Jarvis. The Lady Spartans were also privileged to receive new uniforms, although they were late in arriving.

Coach Wayne Hoover led his boys' team to many victories during the season. Some of the most exciting moments occurred during the Ledford and Randleman games.

Junior Varsity Sports - Teams for the Future

"Hey, which arm is mine?"

Never underestimate the importance of junior varsity sports in high school. This program is the training ground for varsity athletes. It is a very important part of the athletic program at Central. Junior varsity teams participate in football, basketball, and baseball.

Central scores two more.

These "gentlemen" aided in marking off yardage for J. V. football.

Eager-faced fans and players anticipated the next play.

"Victory, victory!"

Remember When . . .

Choosing a class mascot was no easy job for seniors.

Juniors reaped these rewards as magazine salesmen.

Mr. Young presents cash awards to the top salesmen in the Mason Candy Drive sale.

Folly Under the Holly: Christmas

"O Tannebaum, O Tannebaum"

"Let's dance and sing and make good cheer,
For Christmas comes but once a year." - McGarren
Oh, how jubilant we were when Christmas came. This spirit was manifested by the large array of food, clothing, and money contributed to the White Christmas Drive, to brighten Christmas for others.

The play, "A Christmas Carol," presented by the Speech and Drama students, concluded Christmas festivities before the beginning of a two-week vacation.

Recollections . . .

The School Committee made frequent visits in keeping up to date with school events.

The Juniors will long remember being measured for their class rings.

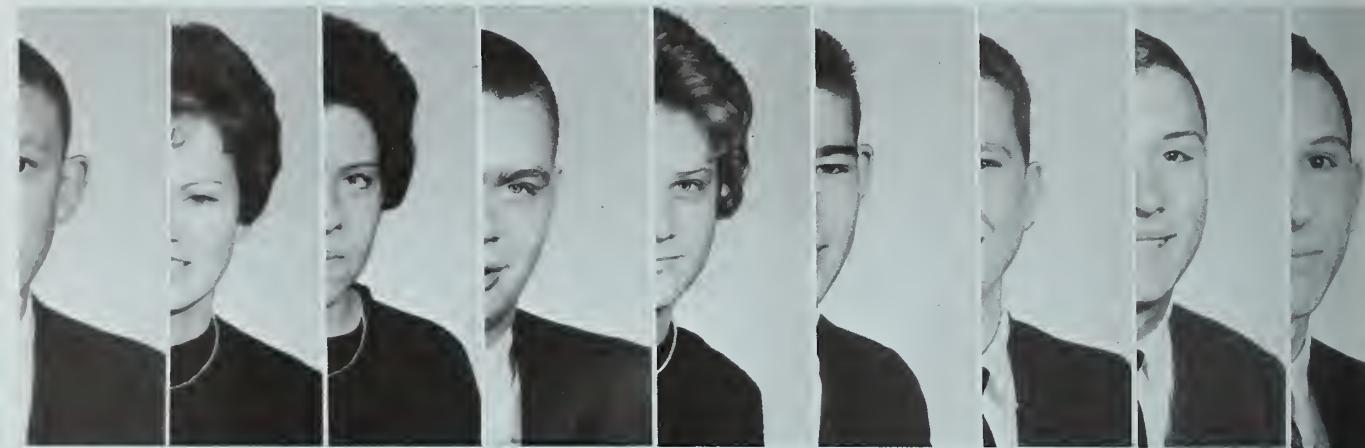

Only the Annual Staff knows for sure.

Seniors received invaluable aid in filling out college applications and forms.

PEOPLE БЕОГДЕ

The sophomore year is an in-between time. They are no longer eager freshmen, but neither have they the many activities of the juniors. However, it is the time when most students complete driver's education and pass the tests for their drivers' licenses. If nothing else, the sophomores can look forward to being a junior.
